FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

City of Reading Snow Updates

Reading, PA - March 5, 2015 - It's all hands on deck on the streets in the City of Reading today. Mayor Spencer and Ralph Johnson, Director of Public Works, are out supervising and lending a hand to the reallocated city crews removing snow.

Due to inclement weather, the solid waste and recycling collection scheduled for today, March 5, 2015 (East Reading area) is cancelled. Collection for East Reading will resume on Saturday, March 7, 2015. Customers in this area can leave their trash out for collection until Saturday.

Collection crews have been redeployed to assist with snow removal today.

Also due to today's weather, all property maintenance inspections scheduled for today, Thursday, March 5th, have been cancelled. Those with inspections scheduled for today will receive a new inspection date. If weather persists, tomorrow's appointments will be rescheduled as well. People with appointments will receive a cancellation call in the morning.

A team from property maintenance has volunteered to be redeployed to assist with snow removal today as well.

The Reading Parking Authority office will be closing at 2 PM today. Garages will remain open and maintenance and management will be available.

Call the Citizens Service Center 1-877-727-3234 with additional questions.
